UNIQUE OPPORTUNITY FOR AREA STUDENTS OF INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS

Buffalo, NY – November 2, 2007 -- The Buffalo World Trade Association (BWTA), The Premiere International Business Networking Opportunity in Western New York, is offering a unique opportunity to local students of International Business.

On November 15, 2007, 5:30pm at the Millennium Hotel, the BWTA will host a “Bring a Student to Dinner” night. The BWTA urges International Business Department heads of all area colleges and universities to nominate select students to attend and have a chance to dine and interact with some of Western New York’s top industry leaders, including:

- David Nojaim, President of Languatek and Labortek. Languatek, Inc. specializes in providing language solutions in all profit and not for profit venues; Labortek, LLC is a full service staffing agency that is helping to facilitate excellent career opportunities for local and international talent.
- Ed Kresconko, Traffic Manager for McGard, a manufacturer of high quality security products, wheel locks and chrome plated lug nuts. Customers include some of the finest North American, Japanese and European automotive manufacturers, as well as government agencies, the military, municipalities, and the fuel industry.
- David Greenberg, Assistant Vice President of International Operations, ABC-Amega Inc, a leading national and international provider of commercial debt collection, accounts receivable management, and industry credit group services.
- John Miller, Assistant Credit Manager of Graham Corporation. Graham Corporation designs and builds vacuum and heat transfer equipment for process industries throughout the world and is a global leader in vacuum technology.
- Cherryl Miller, Distribution Administrator for Fisher Price, the most trusted name in quality toys, including innovative learning toys, toys based on popular preschool characters, award-winning baby gear, and numerous licensed children’s products.
